

PART – I

About Coaching and Guidance Cell (C&GC) in Haj House, Mumbai.

1. Historical Perspective: A multilingual and multireligious society like ours can flourish only if all members of the society play an important role in its collective life. But in the last 60 years, our democratic set up has not achieved such a balance inspite of several Committees & Commissions appointed by the Govt. The Sacchar Committee which has clearly stated that the economic and educational level of Muslims has deteriorated even below the SC/ST categories in some social/educational aspects and their capacity to compete with their educationally advanced fellow citizens has been continuously declining. The Community is caught in a vicious circle of poverty and illiteracy. The Government has been announcing various schemes from time to time for their upliftment, yet in reality not much has been gained.

2. Historical Decision: In this backdrop, the Haj Committee of India (HCOI) took a major initiative of training Muslim Graduates for Civil Services examination. The object of the interview is to assess the personal suitability of the candidate for a career in public service by a Board of competent and unbiased observers. The test is intended to judge the mental caliber of a candidate. In broad terms, this is really an assessment of not only his/her intellectual qualities but also social traits and his/her interest in current affairs. Some of the qualities to be judged are mental alertness, critical powers of assimilation, clear and logical exposition, balance of judgment, variety and depth of interest, ability for social cohesion and leadership, intellectual and moral integrity. The technique of the interview is not that of a strict cross-examination but of a natural, though directed and purposive conversation which is intended to reveal the mental qualities of the candidate. The interview test is not intended to be a test either of the specialized or general knowledge of the candidates which has been already tested through their written papers. Candidates are expected to have taken an intelligent interest not only in their special subjects of academic study but also in the events which are happening around them both within and outside their own state or country as well as in modern currents of thought and in new discoveries which should rouse the curiosity of well-educated youth.

46. Attempts: A general category candidate is allowed to appear for Civil Service Examination six times, while candidates belonging to reserved categories of SC/ST/OBCs get more attempts as per the norms of UPSC.

47. Methodology: Those who appear for the Civil Services Examination have to keep in mind that every answer should have a good beginning and a definite conclusion. They should avoid making sweeping generalizations. All the important points should be highlighted in their answers. Brief and relevant answers help to fetch good marks. Answers should be presented with flow charts, diagrams and pie charts which are bound to impress the examiners. The last two months before the examinations should be devoted to revision only. Students are advised to practice, solving mock papers and cautioned against touching upon new topics. Any attempt at expanding one's knowledge base in the run-up to the Mains may have a negative effect. The candidates are also advised to avoid reading unnecessary things, as what not to read is as necessary as what to read during the limited time for preparation. By avoiding unnecessary topics, one can save a lot of time and concentrate more on main issues. All answers should be written in legible and easy-to-read handwriting.
